FLIGHT
The Wright brothers' invention of the airplane is a landmark in the history of human flight. The brothers, Orville and Wilbur, began their experiments in 1900, and by 1903 they had built the first powered, controlled, and sustained flight. Their invention was a result of their persistent efforts to understand the principles of flight, and their eventual success was a testament to their ingenuity and perseverance. The Wright brothers' invention of the airplane has revolutionized the world, and their legacy continues to inspire generations of aviators and engineers.
